

LAST WEEK IN INNOVATIVE MOBILITY

September 14th - September 20th, 2015

ITS

Los Angeles launches the new Metro TAP card that allows riders to pay fares for any of the county's 26 public transit agencies with one card.

VEHICLES

The Lutz Pathfinder, a self-driving two-seater electric "pod" was launched for testing. Backed by the U.K.'s Department for Transport, findings from the project will contribute to the larger-scale U.K. Autodrive program.

APPS

Arro ride-hailing app connects directly with New York's yellow taxis through a partnership with Creative Mobile Technologies. The soft launch in about 8,000 cabs precedes a future partnership with Verifone, which will sync the app with all 22,000 yellow cabs.

RIDESOURCING/TNCS

Judge Robert Mason of the California Public Utilities Commission orders Uber to publicize uncensored legal filings regarding its business practices.
